

The Five Senses

sight

I use my eyes to watch Ms.
Leonard ride a monster truck.

I use my eyes to look at my colorful painting.

I use my eyes to view the Kindergarten Halloween parade.

I use my eyes to see my reflection in the mirror.

Touch

I use my hand to stroke Mrs.
Farrar's hair.

I use my hands to touch a slick,
shiny, green chair.

I use my fingers to feel my teachers ring.

I use my hands to feel the smooth, soft shaving cream.

I use my fingers to rub across the bumpy frog.

I use my hands to squish the play dough.

I use my hands to feel the tickly,
rough straw hat.

Hearing

I use my ears to listen to my teacher.

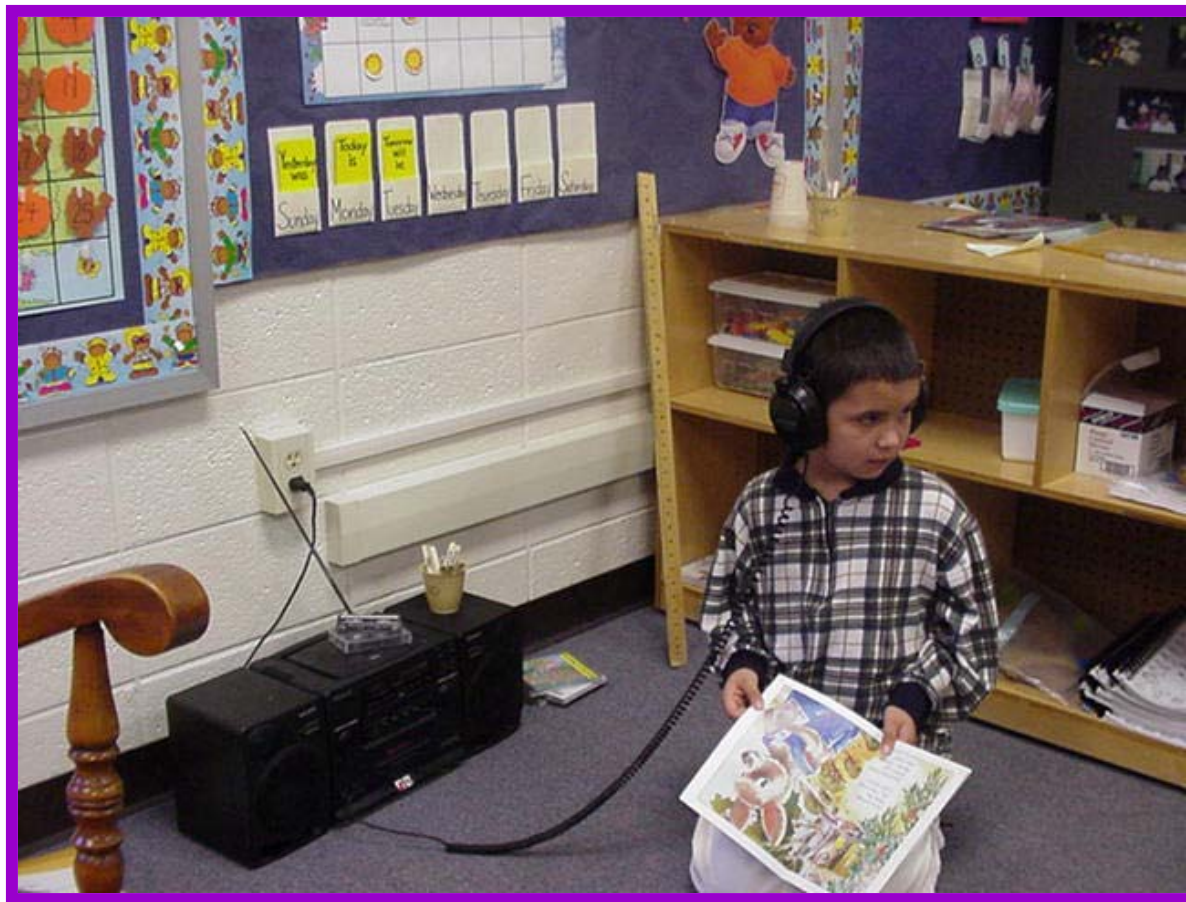

I use my ears to hear the sounds of the musical instruments in the Kindergarten Halloween Parade.

I use my ears to listen to Grady sing a song.

I use my ears to hear stories and sounds on the listening station.

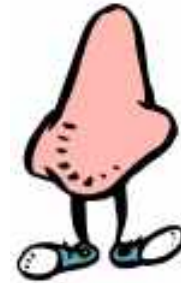

I use my ears to listen to the crackle of fire burning trees in the forest.

Th N s

Smell

I use my nose to sniff a bouquet of flowers.

I use my nose to smell a nasty trashcan.

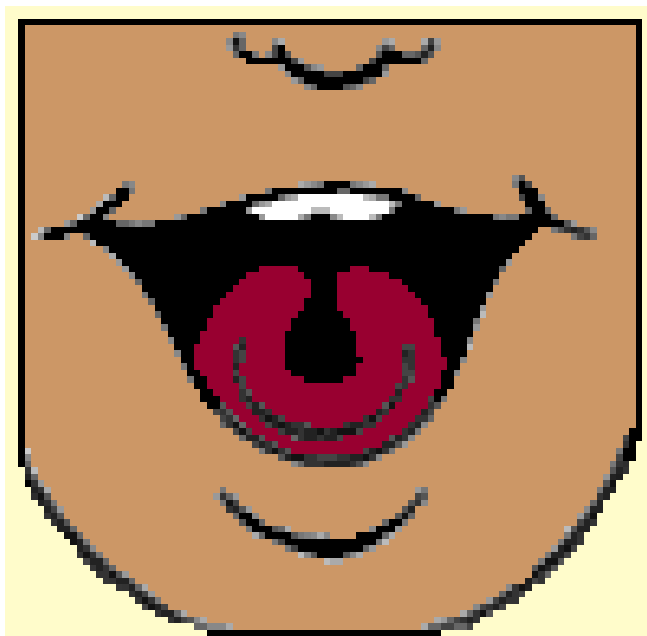

I use my nose to smell the scent of fresh crayons.

I use my nose to inhale the odors of sea air, salt water, and fish.

Taste

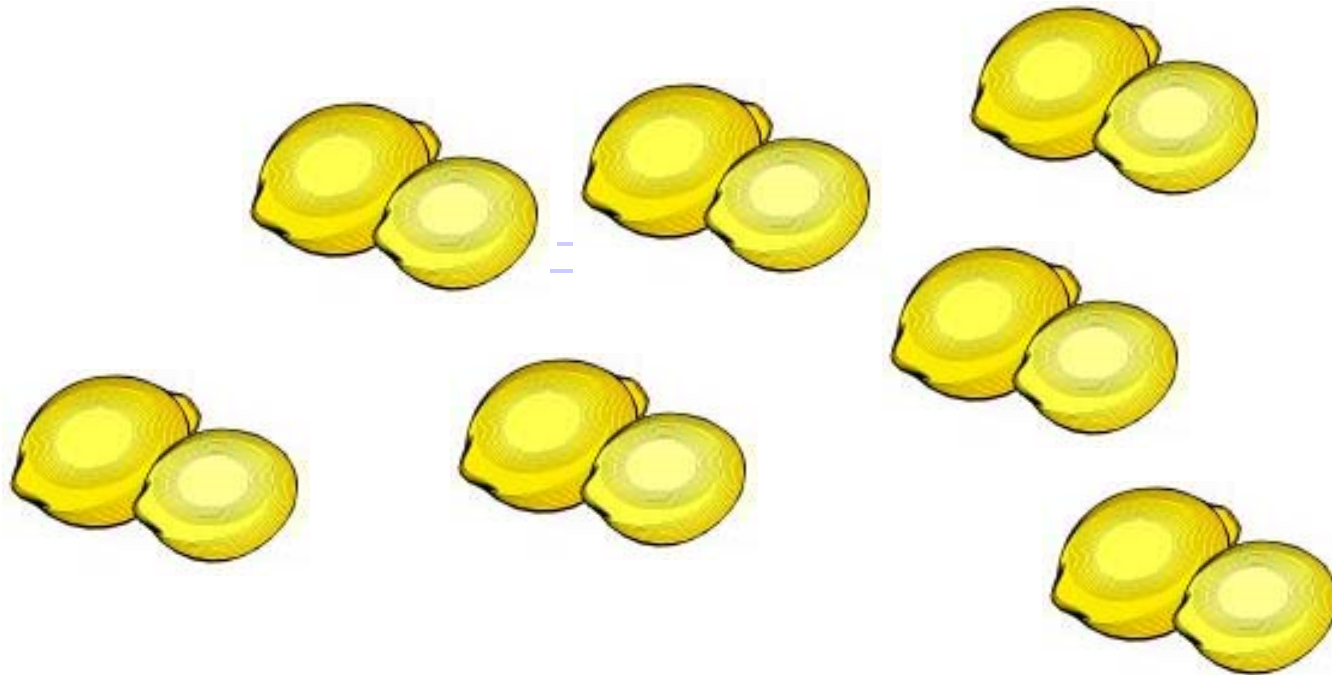

I use my mouth to taste crunchy,
salty Doritos.

I use my mouth to taste cocoa that tastes bitter.

I use my mouth to taste sour lemons.

I use my mouth to taste sweet,
sticky goodies.

I use my mouth to taste sweet,
cold, delicious ice cream.

The End